RCSS math and literacy event helps families understand new Georgia mathematics standards

(AUGUSTA, GEORGIA) – The Richmond County School System (RCSS) invites parents and guardians to join us on Wednesday, November 29, for "Numbers + Letters = Better Together," a math and literacy workshop that will provide resources for families to support students as they transition to new Georgia Department of Education (GaDOE) mathematics standards.

"This year is the first year that our schools have implemented the new K-12 math standards, and we are working hand-in-hand with families to set up our students for success," said Kinesha Ponder, Director of Teaching and Learning. "This event is geared toward parents and guardians who want to better understand what their children are being taught and learn how to engage students at home as they develop their skills."

"Numbers + Letters = Better Together" will be held on Wednesday, November 29 at the HUB for Community Innovation at 631 Chafee Ave, Augusta, GA 30904. Attendees can join one of three sessions:

- Session 1: 9:30 – 11:30 a.m.
- Session 2: 1:00 – 3:00 p.m.
- Session 3: 5:00 – 7:00 p.m.

During the event, attendees will learn about the new K-12 Georgia mathematics standards and receive giveaways like Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) kits, mathematics manipulatives, and books.

The event is free and open to the public. Limited childcare services will be available based on capacity.
